Trafficking and other forms of sexual exploitation impact lives in Western North Carolina and the faith-based community has an exceptional call to respond. The 2023 Kingdom Response Symposium is a half day event for those in the faith community, to understand trafficking and sexual exploitation and passionately respond!

Life 107, in partnership with the Transylvania Baptist Association is providing this powerful and FREE symposium to bring awareness of sexual exploitation and trafficking, through the lens of faith, and ignite a passionate, effective response to trafficking in Western North Carolina.

Participants will experience insight about trafficking victimization, pornography, and its relation to human trafficking, and the multiple forms of sexual exploitation. Trainings will be delivered by Joe Farris, Dropping the Stones Leader and Demetria Gilliam-Williams, Life 107 Executive Director. We will finalize the day with an insightful panel discussion including local pastors, law enforcement, a trafficked Survivor, NC Baptist Association, and Life 107 Board Members who fight the sex trade industry in WNC.

Bring your neighbors, congregation, small group, or your women's/men's group and be equipped to respond with compassion and grace, to trafficking and exploitation.
